Now it is the Castle Square Theatre, the most important stock company in the United States, that has just piassed over to one of the circuits of travelling companies. For eight years John Craig, who conducted the theatre, and Mary Young, who played the beading roles, were highly popular with the Boston public. The so-called "Harvard" plays, such as "Common Clay." "Believe Me. Xantippe" and others, were acted there. Last season, however, it became evident that public taste was less enthusiastic and now the stock company has passed now the stock company has passed out of existence.

Where in the world will the "Harvard" plays now be acted?

Thomas Shea, who used to be a tragedian and for years acted in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." will be a judge in one of the companies acting "Common Clay" this winter.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

"Somebody's Luggage," Mark Swann's comedy, with James T. Powers, scheduled to open this evening at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, on account of the heat has been posiponed until next Monday.

The regular matines yesterday of "The Silent Witness" at the Longacre Theatre was called off. The play was performed as usual last night and will continue through the week as advertised, after which it will be moved to the Fulton Theatre.

John Drew will return from Easthampton Spitember 4 to begin rehearsals for his new play, "Major Pendennia," which will open the first week in October. The scenery and costumes will be designed by Caroline Dudley.

Winthrop Ames has settled the future of the attractive Little Theatre which has already been closed too long. It has not been open to the public since "A Pair of Silk Stockings" was played there. Mr. Ames has selected a number of pieces which he will produce, and so determined is he that his full programme shall be carried out that he is determined to transfer to some other theatre the plays which threaten to last too long. He does not propose to be inconvenienced by a success.

"Hush is the title of the first play Mr. Ames will give when he opens the season on October 12. It is by Violet Pearn and its said to deal with "deligate subjects." Estelle Winwood and Cathleen Nesbitt will have the leading roles. Among the three other dramas mat Mr. Ames hopes to give are "The Morris Dance," a farce by Granville Barker founded on "The Wrong Box" by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Orbourne. There are twelve different genes in Mr. Barker's version of the famous story and the revolving stage of the theatre will be used.

When I began manufacturing July 6, 1876, manufacturers sold their shoes to wholesale and retail dealers throughout the country without any retail price being stamped on them. This gave the dealer an opportunity to charge a higher price than the shoes were actually worth. After giving the matter careful consideration, I believed I could guarantee the wearer more value for his money if fixed the retail price according to the true value of the shoes. In 1883 I decided to stamp my name and retail price on the bottom of all shoes before they left the factory and to use my portrait as a trade-mark, thus guaranteeing full value and protecting the wearer against high prices for inferior shoes. For 33 years the name W. L. DOUGLAS has stood for shoes of the highest standard of quality for the price. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York. Extensive and continuous advertising in newspapers and periodicals throughout the country has made the W. L. Douglas shoes known everywhere.
